CONTENT

Acknowledgements

INTRODUCTION

1 THE DREAM: THINKING ABOUT CIVIL SOCIETY IN THE CZECH LANDS BEFORE 1989
1.1 Three Concepts
1.1.1 Tesař (1977): Civil Society as an Antidote to Non-democratic Regimes
1.1.2 Benda (1978): Parallel Polis
1.1.3 Havel (1978): Living in Truth and Non-Political Politics
1.2 Conclusion: Dream or Program?

2 CIVIL SOCIETY IN THE CZECH REPUBLIC: A STORY OF SLOW EMANCIPATION
2.1 Introduction and Historical Background
2.1.1 Development before 1989 and Some Consequences
2.1.2 Crucial Moments and Political Turn-Overs after 1989
2.2 Characteristics of Civil Society: Basic Data
2.3 Institutional Background of Civil Society
2.3.1 The Legal Environment of CSOs
2.3.2 The Legal Environment of Advocacy
2.3.3 Financial Environment
2.4 Perspectives

3 EMBEDDEDNESS OF CIVIC ADVOCACY CSOs IN THE CZECH REPUBLIC: AN EMPIRICAL ASSESSMENT
3.1 Theoretical and Conceptual Background: Four Ideal Types of Civil Society Development
3.2 Czech Civic Advocacy
3.3 Data and Methods
3.4 Membership in Advocacy and Non-advocacy Groups Compared 3.5 Individual Participation in Civic Advocacy Activities
3.6 Social Embeddedness of Advocacy CSOs

3.7 Patterns of Alienation between Citizens and CSOs: Mutual Perceptions

3.8 Summary

CONCLUSIONS

Figures
Tables
References